GETTING TO THE BOATHOUSE

Route 1: recommended if you're walking

This route is very simple: where you can, go straight ahead. Follow Trumpington St., and keep going – the road becomes King's Parade (guess why), then Trinity St., then St. John's St. as it passes each of the eponymous colleges. St. John's St. ends at a crossroads – you will see the aptly-named Round Church in front of you. Go straight ahead. You will now come to a T-junction. Turn left here (to keep the multi-storey car park on your left). Then turn right, onto Lower Park St. – there is a row of cottages on your right and a primary school on your left. Lower Park St. is the end of the road – but keep going straight ahead, onto the footpath across the park (known as Jesus Green), which has a small stream running beside it. It's straight ahead all the way from here: you will need to cross a road (there's a pelican crossing) onto a different bit of parkland (called Midsummer Common), but don't let that put you off. At the end of the footpath, you should find yourself at the Fort St. George pub. Here there is a footbridge over the river, which you should cross. You will see the boathouse as you cross the bridge.

Route 2: better for bikes

Turn right off Trumpington St. onto Pembroke St., the narrow road with the high stone buildings on either side. Follow it to the end, then turn left. Follow the tarmac road round to the right, where you will most likely find yourself in a queue of buses waiting to pull into numerous bus stops. Again, follow the road round to the right, past more bus stops, until you come to a mini-roundabout. Here turn left. Keep going, with Christ's Pieces (a park) on your left, and you will come to a fairly large roundabout. Go straight ahead at the roundabout. You should now see Midsummer Common (open grass) on your right. When you come to the first pelican crossing, cross the road and go onto Midsummer Common, following the footpath across the Common. When you reach the Fort St. George pub, cross the river using the footbridge, and the boathouse is before you.
